After numerous victories in battle and the conquest of over 80 kingdoms and principalities, Gulliver finds himself stranded on Lilliput, a tiny island of the The 4th Book of Gulliver's Travels andÂ .This month marks the 11th year that my MS is discussing health issues. My symptoms first appeared when I was in my early 20’s. I was hospitalized a few times, which gave me a good opportunity to learn what MS was. It was during this time that I got many diagnoses such as “Psychosomatic” and “Multiple Sclerosis.” I finally got the correct diagnosis from my HMO in 1995. The next 6 years were spent in and out of the hospital, including a near-fatal crash due to the drug side-effects of the MS drugs. So I had both a personal and an MS story. During that same time, I met Bill and Janet (who I’ll talk about next) and they helped me learn how to help myself. I now know that I have both a medical diagnosis and a spiritual one. Also, both are symptomatic of each other. I finally got over the medical portion of the equation and got well enough to help others. I was and am still diagnosed with, “Progressive Multiple Sclerosis” because it was diagnosed last. I’ve heard many people say, “We all have MS,” but they mean that they have “Inflammatory MS.” Inflammatory MS affects the brain, the spinal cord, and the nerves. There are other forms of MS that affect the muscles. Why am I talking about both of these

Research Square Collaboration Just prior to the start of the Fall 2011 semester, the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences (SEAS) and Research Square, an academic commercial collaboration, became a member of the Research Square Innovation Network. The partnership was established to expand each organization's capabilities by providing access to high-quality technology and expert consultants and training. Through the partnership, SEAS researchers can access a wide variety of cloud-based, web-based, and even wearable technologies. They can also access the large databases and digital archives produced by Research Square, including data science, intelligence, education, and library materials such as U.S. patent information. Also, SEAS researchers will have access to the company's experienced and trained consultants that will provide advice on technology and data management. Research Square will work with SEAS to develop and present workshops and presentations that will highlight the applications of the technologies to SEAS research and teaching. Availability of Seed Grants In August 2011, Research Square announced the availability of a new series of seed grants that will provide grants to innovative researchers and educators who are seeking to improve education in areas such as health care, sustainability, and social justice. About Research Square The Company was founded in 2006 as an initiative of the Research Libraries, a consortium of universities and their research libraries, to provide a flexible, open-source infrastructure for building and deploying innovative research products. It is funded by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and Research Libraries Australia. Research Libraries manages the assets of Research Square, but individual Library users and research communities can use the
