May .In pneumatic tires, vehicle tires and inflation property and a durability thereof, it is generally desirable to reduce the thickness of the liner material. For example, in pneumatic tires, a non-vulcanized rubber reinforced with glass fiber and carbon fiber is used as a liner material with a thickness of 0.1 mm to 0.2 mm. However, with such a liner material having a thickness of about 0.1 mm, it has been difficult to secure a desired inflation property and a durability thereof. For this reason, in recent years, a liner material of a thinner thickness has been investigated and, for example, a liner material manufactured from a rubber composition with a rubber component and a thickener, has been proposed (see, for example, Patent Literature 1).

Report: First playoff game canceled after bacteria found at AT&T Park. Fans standing near the San Francisco Giants' dugout in the first-ever playoff game between the San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers were reported Friday to have contracted a nasty case of strep throat as a result of an air duct being blocked by a piece of debris, according to a local CBS affiliate. San Francisco's James Stewart reported the story, adding that the game was canceled and the air-

duct issue was fixed. SAN FRANCISCO GIANTS WEIGH PLAYOFF BYPASS AFTER STREP THROAT ALLEGATION The Giants and Dodgers were set to play in the second game of the National League Division Series on Friday at AT&T Park. The next day, however, Dodgers manager Dave Roberts tweeted that the Dodgers learned the air duct had been blocked, so the game was canceled. He said it had nothing to do with the strep outbreak. A team spokesman said it was unclear whether the air duct was the source of the bacteria. "We don't know yet," said the spokesman. "There were some fans that were very upset, though, and we don't want to be the reason that something like this happens." He said the team has offered fans free games in the future. CLICK HERE TO GET THE FOX NEWS APP
